Biographical Note:

This collection of family papers was donated by Carlton Clark Sexton. Mr. Sexton is the great-grandson of Gaylord Blair Clark of Mobile, and the grandson of Gaylord Lee Clark. Gaylord Lee Clark was born August 11, 1888, in Mobile, Alabama. He lived in Baltimore, Maryland from the 1920s until his death on February 6, 1969, at the age of 80. Mr. Clark attended Episcopal High School and attended college at the University of Virginia where he received his BA, MA and BL by 1907. Mr. Clark practiced law in Mobile, Alabama for two years, then moved to Baltimore in 1910 where he continued his career in law. Mr. Clark enlisted in the military in 1915 and served as 1st Lieutenant of the 115th Infantry, 29th Division until the Armistice in 1918. When he returned, Mr. Clark married Juliana Brent Keyser in April 1921. He also became the assistant state's attorney for Baltimore until 1924 when he then became associated with the general practice law firm Semmes, Bowen & Semmes. Mr. Clark took up a personal hobby of tracing and gathering evidence of his family's genealogy. His extensive findings are housed in this collection.

Scope and Content:

This collection contains a personal journal written by Fannie Eleanor Smith, a Civil War era scrapbook which belonged to Sarah Hunter Smith, as well as correspondence, genealogical research, news clippings collected and assembled by Gaylord Lee Clark. A strength of this collection is the prominence of primary documents created by women. The journal gives genealogical history from a woman's perspective. The scrapbook created by Mrs. Smith gives insight into the Southern domestic life during the Civil War. Also included in this collection is the handwritten Will of Sarah Hunter Smith.

Arrangement:

Materials are organized into 3 series based on material type.

Series I. Journal belonging to Fannie Eleanor Smith, undated.

This is an 8" x 7" journal with approximately 41 pages of written content. These are the recollections of the lives of Sarah Hunter and her husband, by their daughter Fannie Eleanor Smith.

Series II. Scrapbook belonging to Sarah Hunter Smith, 1862- 1865.

This item is in fragile condition. According to signatures on the inner cover and pages throughout the book, it appears to have belonged to Sarah Hunter Smith (Mrs. Robert White Smith). The first entry date is April 19, 1862. Throughout the scrapbook are newspaper clippings and personal notes on various homesteading techniques, news updates on the war, and other printed materials. In between the pages are inserts which include the following: Counsel to Men a Sermon Preached at Christ Church Mobile by Bishop Wilmer (March 15, 1896); a handwritten recipe for spiced beef by Mrs. R. W. Smith; and a handwritten advertisement on "The Acid Iron Earth Company" letterhead by R. W. Smith Secretary and Treasurer requesting the immediate service of horsemen for Confederate war efforts (October 9, 1861). Also in this scrapbook are entries titled "By Whom Recommended" and "Names of Persons-Destinations," most likely in reference to the previously mentioned advertisement.

Series III. Genealogical Research and correspondence, 1299-1979.

- i. Clark Family Data
- ii. James Family and Branches
- iii. Smith-Clark Letters,
- iv. Mobile Smith Family Records

Series III is ordered according to the original family groupings created by the donor.

This Series includes all research and correspondence compiled by Gaylord Lee Clark in his efforts to document genealogical histories of the Clark, Smith, and James family lineages. Included in these materials are extensive printed material including war bonds, Confederate currency, business documents. Also included are certificates for business in the Mobile Alabama Railroad, family recipes, newspaper clippings, marriage announcements, obituaries related to his family history, and the will of Sarah Hunter Smith which was drafted by herself in 1849.
